TODAY AND TOMORROW

In every town and community there are two classes of young boys, and possibly our town is no exception to the rule.

The gilded and pampered youth looks with disdain upon the boy who starts life in an humble capacity and picks up a few nickels by running errands and selling papers and putting shoes.

Yet a few years hence the newsboy or bootblack may be the head of some great commercial enterprise, and the pampered youth may be filling a fifteen dollar a week clerkship in his employ.

The same may be said of young girls, and even of some who are not so young. Caste estranges the well-to-do from the poor and needy, and the cold shoulder is substitute for the helping hand.

Years hence, though, the needy girl may be the wife of one of the greatest men of the nation, while the girl of caste is still longing for most any kind of a man.

Too many of us preach democracy in public and practice autocracy in private life.

We tell others what to do and forget to do the same things ourselves.

We live wholly in today and forget that tomorrow will ever exist.

And for the follies of today we pay dearly in the years to come.

Honesty, integrity, perseverance—these are the real assets of life, more golden in their value than all of the caste distinctions in existence.

Young men and young women who make the most of their opportunities today never want for their hearts' desires tomorrow.

In the meantime several dozen bystanders were anxiously awaiting their turn at the cistern bucket.
